

Millennials, Happiness and Money

WELLS
FARGO

The study finds that millennials who are actively engaged with their money are happier, according to the 2017 Wells Fargo Millennial Study.

Out of a generation of more than 75 Million millennials...

62%

of millennials are "happy"

65%

say their life is "meaningful"

Though they are rosy...

69%

say they want to "get over their anxiety about money"

A low percentage of millennials...

32%

say they are satisfied with their financial life

Click to find out more about the survey