Discussion of financial and operational results for the third quarterIncome statement

Consolidated total revenue increased 9% to $1.4 billion. Favorable foreign exchange rates produced a 300bps benefit to the consolidated total revenue increase. In the U.S., total revenue decreased 14% to $715 million. In Mexico, total revenue grew 51% to $665 million. Excluding the impact of foreign exchange, Mexico revenue increased 43%.

Advertising revenue declined 5% to $717 million. In the U.S., advertising revenue decreased 24% to $328 million reflecting cyclical headwinds primarily from competitive sports programming and a prior year comparison that included the Gold Cup. In Mexico, advertising revenue increased 19% to $389 million driven by the FIFA World Cup.

Subscription and licensing revenue increased 30% to $640 million. The growth was primarily driven by approximately $90 million in revenue attributable to sublicensing the FIFA World Cup rights across Spanish-speaking Latin American countries and the expansion of ViX's premium tier. In the U.S., it declined 4% to $372 million due to lower content licensing revenue partially offset by pricing growth in ViX's premium tiers. In Mexico, it grew 156% to $268 million driven by strong content licensing and growth in ViX's premium tier driven by the FIFA World Cup.

Operating expenses increased 14% to $918 million, or 11% excluding foreign exchange, mainly driven by FIFA World Cup rights and production costs. As a result, adjusted OIBDA decreased 1% to $461 million.

Operating loss was $119 million compared to operating income of $265 million in the prior year. The company recorded a non-cash impairment loss of $372 million related to the write-down of television broadcast licenses.

Cash flow and balance sheet

Cash flows provided by operating activities for the three months ended September 30, 2026 were $54 million, compared to $34 million of cash used in the prior year. Investing activities for the three months ended September 30, 2026, included capital expenditures of $28 million compared to $25 million in the prior year. The Company ended the quarter with $753 million in cash on its balance sheet.

The leverage ratio, or net debt to Adjusted OIBDA, was 5.5x as of September 30, 2026, consistent with the end of the prior quarter.

Forward-Looking Statements / Safe Harbor

Certain statements contained within this press release constitute “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. In some cases you can identify forward looking statements by terms such as “anticipate,” “plan,” “may,” “intend,” “will,” “expect,” “believe,” “optimistic” or the negative of these terms, and similar expressions intended to identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements reflect our current views with respect to future events and are based on assumptions and are subject to risks and uncertainties. Also, these forward-looking statements present our estimates and assumptions only as of the date of this press release.

Factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed or implied by the forward-looking statements in this press release include: (1) cancellations, reductions or postponements of advertising or other changes in advertising practices among our advertisers; (2) any impact of adverse economic or political conditions on our industry, business and financial condition, including inflationary pressures, increases in interest rates, decreases in consumer spending, recessionary fears and reduced advertising revenue and volatility and weakness in the capital markets; (3) failure to renew existing carriage agreements or reach new carriage agreements with multichannel video programming distributors (“MVPDs”) on acceptable terms or otherwise and the impact of such failure on pricing terms of, and contractual obligations under, carriage agreements with other MVPDs; (4) changes in the size of the U.S. Hispanic population, including the impact of U.S. federal and state immigration legislation and policies on both the U.S. Hispanic population and persons emigrating from Latin America; (5) failure to continue our content and programming strategy, including for our sports programming and the content we obtain from Grupo Televisa, as well as lack of audience acceptance of our content or varying popularity of programming; (6) competition in the media industry, including effects of consolidation in the cable or satellite MVPD industry; (7) risks and uncertainties related to, and disruptions to our business and operations caused by, the TelevisaUnivision Transaction and the combination of the companies’ content business; (8) failure of our subscription video-on-demand (“SVOD”) or ad-supported video-on-demand (“AVOD”) services as part of our strategy to provide streaming channels and on-demand Spanish-language programming to Hispanic audiences throughout the world; (9) disruption of our business due to network and information systems-related events, such as computer system or network breaches, hackings or other security incidents, viruses, or other destructive or disruptive software or activities; (10) failure to protect our intellectual property, including piracy of our programming and other content, or other infringement or violation of our intellectual property rights, (11) the impact of U.S. and Mexican regulations including Federal Communications Commission regulations and other U.S. and Mexican communications laws; (12) risks related to our substantial indebtedness and ability to pay our debt; and (13) other factors that may be set forth in the Forward Looking Statements accompanying our annual audited and interim unaudited financial statements from time to time. Actual results may differ materially due to these risks and uncertainties. The Company undertakes no obligation to modify or revise any forward-looking statements to reflect events or circumstances occurring after the date that the forward-looking statement was made.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

Management of the Company evaluates operating performance for planning and forecasting future business operations by considering operating income before depreciation, amortization and certain additional adjustments to operating income (“Adjusted OIBDA”). See “Reconciliation of Operating (Loss) Income to Adjusted OIBDA” beginning on page 8 hereof.

In addition, the Company presents certain information on an “ex-FX” basis, meaning that it is presenting information on a basis that excludes the impact of foreign exchange rates. The impact of exchange rates on our business is an important factor in understanding period-to-period comparisons of our results. For example, our international revenues are favorably impacted as the U.S. dollar weakens relative to other foreign currencies, including the Mexican peso, and unfavorably impacted as the U.S. dollar strengthens relative to other foreign currencies, including the Mexican peso. We believe the presentation of results on an “ex-FX” basis, in addition to results reported in accordance with U.S. GAAP provides useful information about our operating performance because the presentation ex-FX excludes the effects of foreign currency volatility and highlights our core operating results. The presentation of results on an ex-FX basis should be considered in addition to, but not a substitute for, measures of financial performance reported in accordance with U.S. GAAP.

The ex-FX change represents the percentage change on a period-over-period basis adjusted for foreign currency impacts. The ex-FX change is calculated as the difference between the current year amounts translated at a baseline rate, which is an average rate for each of our currencies (the “2025 Baseline Rate”), and the prior year amounts translated at the same 2025 Baseline Rate. Results on an ex-FX basis, as we present them, may not be comparable to similarly titled measures used by other companies, including “constant currency basis”.

RECONCILIATION OF OPERATING (LOSS) INCOME TO ADJUSTED OIBDA¹

Management of the Company evaluates operating performance for planning and forecasting future business operations by considering Adjusted OIBDA (as described below) and Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA (as described below). Management also uses Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA to assess the Company's ability to satisfy certain financial covenants contained in the Company's senior secured credit facilities and the indentures governing its senior notes. Adjusted OIBDA and Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA eliminate the effects of certain items that the Company does not consider indicative of its core operating performance. Adjusted OIBDA represents operating income before depreciation, amortization, and certain additional adjustments to operating income. Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA represents Adjusted OIBDA with certain additional adjustments permitted under the Company's senior secured credit facilities, new term loan and indentures governing the senior notes that include add-backs and/or deductions, as applicable, for specified business optimization expenses, and income (loss) from equity investments in entities, the results of which are consolidated in the Company's operating income (loss), that are not treated as subsidiaries, and certain other expenses. Adjusted OIBDA and Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA are not, and should not be used as, indicators of or alternatives to operating income as reflected in the consolidated financial statements. They are not measures of financial performance under GAAP and they should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for measures of performance prepared in accordance with GAAP. Since the definition of Adjusted OIBDA and Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA may vary among companies and industries, neither should be used as a measure of performance among companies. The Company is providing a reconciliation of the non-GAAP terms Adjusted OIBDA and Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA to operating income, which is the most directly comparable GAAP financial measure.

The tables below set forth a reconciliation of the non-GAAP terms Adjusted OIBDA and Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA to operating (loss) income.

² Restricted cash included within Prepaid expenses and other and Other assets was $3.4 million as of September 30, 2026 and primarily pertains to escrow amounts for certain lease and grant payments. Restricted cash included within Prepaid expenses and other and Other assets was $2.2 million as of December 31, 2025 and pertains to escrow amounts for certain lease and grant payments.

³ Impairment loss in 2026 is related to the write-down of television broadcast licenses.

⁶ Purchase price adjustment relates to amortization of the step-up balance of the Televisa program rights acquired on January 31, 2022.

⁷ Other adjustments in 2026 to operating income primarily reflect unusual and infrequent or nonrecurring items, substantially consisting of (i) costs related to a one-time tax withholding payment related to a prior year that we do not expect to recur; (ii) payment of, or establishing reserves for, certain one-time litigation settlements and judgments that we do not expect will recur and are separate from normal, recurring legal matters; (iii) certain one-time transaction costs relating to tax planning and other non-restructuring reorganization activities, (iv) one-time lease terminations costs, and (v) other strategic optimization costs. Other adjustments in 2025 to operating income primarily reflect unusual and infrequent or nonrecurring items, substantially consisting of (i) payment of, or establishing reserves for, certain one-time litigation settlements and judgments that we do not expect will recur and are separate from normal, recurring legal matters; (ii) certain one-time transaction costs relating to tax planning and other non-restructuring reorganization activities, (iii) one-time contracts terminations costs, (iv) one-time lease terminations costs, and (v) other strategic optimization costs.

⁸ Under the Company's credit agreement governing the Company's senior secured credit facilities, the new term loan facility and indentures governing the Company's senior notes, Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA permits the add-back and/or deduction, as applicable, for specified income (loss) from equity investments in entities, the results of which are consolidated in the Company's operating income, that are not treated as subsidiaries, in each case under such credit facilities and indentures, and certain other expenses. The amounts for certain entities that are not treated as subsidiaries under the Company's senior secured credit facilities, new term loan facility and indentures governing the Company's senior notes above represent the residual elimination after the other permitted exclusions from Bank Credit Adjusted OIBDA. In addition, certain contractual adjustments under the Company's senior secured credit facilities, new loan term facility and indentures are permitted to operating income under the Company's senior secured credit facilities, new term loan and indentures governing the Company's senior notes in all periods related to the treatment of the accounts receivable facility under GAAP that existed when the senior secured credit facilities were originally entered into and other miscellaneous items.
